

ACHS Curriculum Changes Suggested

(This is the third in a series of three articles concerning the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools visitation report of Antioch Community High School.)

The third section of the report dealt with the Program of Studies which includes: Art, Business Education, Driver Education, Home Economics, Industrial Arts, Language Arts, Music and both boys' and girls' Physical Education programs received recommendations concerning their crowded, and/or insufficient facilities, all of which had been noted by the teachers of these areas in their self-evaluation. All of these de-iciencies are being corrected or improved by the new addition currently in the planning stage. Additional teachers were specifically recommended for the Art, English, Health, Math, Music and Boys and Girls Physical Education departments. These recommendations are also currently being considered for implementation with the new facilities. Articulation of the program in the local feeder grade schools and the high school should be instigated by the high school personnel primarily in the areas of Art, Business Education, Health, Mathematics, Music, Girls Physical Education and Social Studies. It was also recommended that the Social Studies and Language Arts Department attempt to articulate in common interest areas such as literature, reading lists, and procedures for research papers and projects. New or additional courses were urged in many areas: Advanced Art, Introduction to Music, and Humanities were advocated in the Fine Arts Department along with the additional opportunities in chorus & instrumental music; Consumer Education and Data Processing courses were urged in the Business Education Department; the use of Driving Simulators was suggested to implement the Driver Education program; The English Department was asked to institute a Developmental Reading program; Latin III and IV were deemed advisable in the Foreign Language Department due to enrollment in the first two years; it was suggested to increase Health from one to two semesters. The Home Economics Department was urged to include Home Management, Consumer Buying, Child Development, and Tailoring; the boys Physical Education department was indicated as needing a progression of activities over the 4 years. Individual and dual activities along with co-recreational activities were advocated for the girls Physical Educational department; and the Modern Science curriculum recently developed was suggested for use by the Science Department. All of the departments were highly rated in almost all of the phases of their programs but the departments that received particularly outstanding commendation for their present programs were the Senior English program and the extra curricular areas associated with the English Department, the Vocational programs of the Industrial Arts department, the Instrumental Music program of the Fine Arts Department and the Social Studies departments team teaching. This is the last in a series of three articles concerning the North Central Visitation at Antioch Community High School.

Memorial Fund Drive Near Goal

"We have reached our initial goal of $2,700 which will pay for the Memorial, but an additional $200 is needed for a plaque to list the names of the men to be memorialized and for landscaping," Liddle explained.

The memorial will be erected in front of the Antioch Village Hall this summer.

Following is the list of late contributors:

Emmons Residents Okay 21 Cent Tax Increase

Merger of Emmons Grade School District with the Antioch Grade School District was staved off by voters in the Emmons District Saturday when they approved a 21 cent increase in the educational fund tax rate.

The tax rate boost, which won't go into effect until next year, brings the rate from $1.03 per $100 of assessed valuation, one of the lowest in the county, to $1.24 per $100 of assessed valuation.

Hanging over the heads of the area residents, however, is another 21 cent referendum to be held on May 24.

Voters were told by school administrators prior to Saturday's balloting that a second referendum would have to be held to bring the rate to $1.45 in order to meet rising costs in the district.

Merger with the Antioch Grade School district had been suggested as a means of overcoming the financial morass in which the Emmons District had floundered for several years because of an enrollment of 1855 students in a school designed for 300.

An increase in enrollment would bring the district more funds from the state, but there is little hope for such an increase in the immediate future.

The new tax rate should boost the district's income from real estate and personal property taxes $61,336 based on the present valuation of $946,500.

George Hall, clerk of the school board, expressed satisfaction with the 109 to 83 vote margin favoring Saturday's referendum, but expressed concern over the fate of the May 24 test.

"Voters in the area will have received their tax bills a few days ago," he said.

Educational Program

(Fifth in a Series)
Dr. R. Ernest Dear, Dean of Instruction, has announced courses for the Fall semester at the College of Lake County. The new junior college will begin classes Sept. 11 on its campus east of Grayslake.

Dr. Dear describes the college curriculum in two areas: the University Parallel Program for those students who intend to transfer to a four-year college following two years at CLC, and the Career Program which will offer training and preparation for a specific area of employment.

"The courses in both programs are the result of consultation with several universities and many lay persons in the District. Certainly, we will not be able to offer everything the first year, but we do feel the proposed courses offer a broad enough selection to satisfy the educational needs of a vast number of students," Dr. Dear stated. "Additional courses will be added to the curriculum as demand and space permit."

"The question of whether CLC will offer sophomore courses in the transfer program during the first year has not been resolved," Dr. Dear said. "We have taken a survey of the District, and although it is still inconclusive, there are indications that there may not be sufficient enrollment during this first year to justify the program. In 1970, we will have both freshmen and sophomore transfer courses."

Specific courses in the University Parallel curriculum include: business courses in accounting, general business, marketing, business law, management, secretarial sciences, data processing; communication arts include English composition, American and English literature, speech and drama; in the humanities, there will be art, Spanish, French, German and music; mathematics and science courses will include biology, chemistry, geology, physics, mathematics and health science; the social studies will have economics, education, history, political science, psychology and sociology.

There will also be physical education courses as space and facilities permit.

The Career Program will reflect the employment demand and potential placement to be found in the Lake County region, as determined by the labor market.

Total snow for season — 35.2"

The "First Day of Spring" dropped 20" of rain on us and it was greatly appreciated. This broke a dry spell of 61 days and put a dampener on our field, brush and slow fires but let's not over do it. I just measured 4" of white stuff on the snow banks and more on the way.

The ice is about all gone from the lakes and last week-end you could see both ice and bank fishermen trying their luck.

The Robins are back in full force and if you're wondering what they will live on until worms are available, a hand full of raisins will do the trick.

I hope by next Tuesday the weather is a lot better and we have a good turn-out for the Township Election. I will need all the help I can get.

Location Set For Grade School

Antioch's new upper grade school will be located north of Rte. 173 and west of Lorenz's Smart Country House on Tiffany Road, the Grade School Board of Education has decided.

At next month's meeting the board will decide on whether to annex the property to the village.

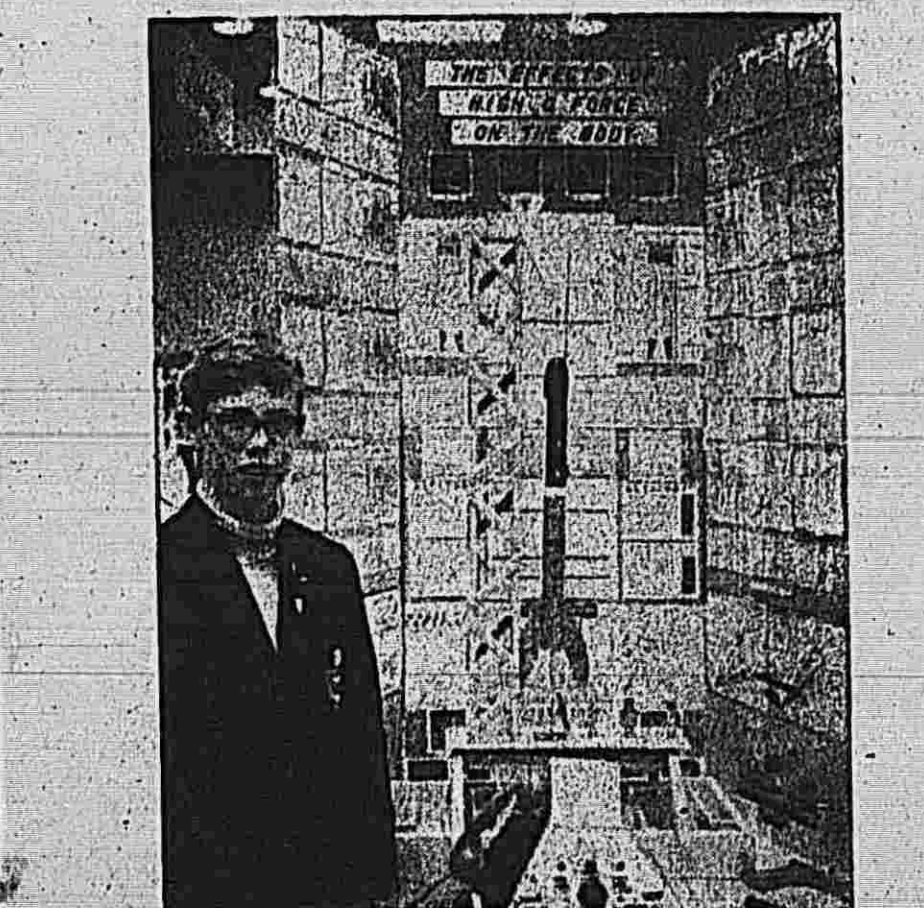

Supt. W. Richard Whitacre said that the building will need sewer and water from the village and that it is the board's intention to annex. He said that the board would come up with something on the possible annexation within a month.

The board in other action returned to the architect for further consideration plans for the learning resource center and the kitchen in the new building.

The board accepted other portions of the building's design.

Youth Science Projects Go On Exhibit At State Bank

The State Bank of Antioch will have Gary Rush, of Antioch, and Jim Christensen, of Lake Villa, on hand Saturday, March 29, to exhibit their winning projects. Each will receive a $25.00 award for excellence from the State Bank.

Jim's project will show the effects of acceleration on mice. He has constructed his own rocket system with the pay-load being a little white mouse. After "blast off" and "recovery" he has measured many physiological effects of the ride.

Gary has spent many years collecting and identifying insects and now he has turned his talents to rearing one kind—the walkingstick. He has gathered eggs, hatched and reared these difficult insects while trying to determine food preferences and other physiological requirements.

Both projects will be on display throughout the day at the State Bank of Antioch.

A Precious Right

Tuesday, April 1 is the day that the people of Antioch Township go to the polls to exercise the most precious right that we have.

Township government is grass-roots government—the one closest to the people—and apathy about voting can turn out to be disastrous for the people residing in a given district.

We have made our selections and will plunk for the incumbents in this election.

But we are sure there are those who disagree with us. That is the right of those living here. That is what this country is all about.

Whether you agree with us or not—we hope that you will agree on this one thing.

Vote.

Vote the person who you think will do the best job for you.

But don't stay home and let someone else make up your mind. Go to the polls next Tuesday.

Too Much Relief

Living on relief is beginning to become a way of life for some families in Illinois.

Proof of this is the ever growing welfare rolls—even though jobs are going begging in the state.

At the beginning of the last biennium there was $872 million appropriated for the relief programs throughout the state.

This included the blind, the disabled, the jobless and the aid to dependent children.

Just last week Gov. Ogilvie signed a deficiency appropriation bill for another $110 million to supplement the millions already expended.

This whopping figure is only for the months of April, May and June.

And before the legislative session ends on June 30, there will be another two-year appropriation waiting in the wings.

We are not against taking care of children, blind, disabled and the like, but some of these families have progressed to the point where the third generation is drawing welfare checks.

And, since Illinois removed the one year residency requirement before a person can draw relief, there has been an enormous increase on the welfare rolls.

Desertion of families by wayward husbands also accounts for a large portion.

But there is a good portion of the ADC that is going to unwed mothers who just keep on having children.

It would seem to us that some safeguards ought to be put on to insure that the money is being spent wisely.

The tax load for the average working man is getting to be such a burden that it is almost more appealing to quit working and go on relief.

We say that with tongue in cheek but we are not too far from that stage if a halt is not called somewhere.

It is time that state government learns to stay within its budget.

The old battle-cries of the legislators that "our people want these services" is beginning to get a little hard to swallow.

We think it is time that the people were asked if they really want them.

We think it is time to pull the belt in a little on the spending habits of government.

Your Congressman Reports...

By Cong. Robert McClory

Two months ago, when hearings commenced on a proposed constitutional amendment to reform the existing Electoral College system, there was a sharp division of opinion among members of the House Judiciary Committee. Today, after hearing testimony from more than 50 witnesses, the Members appear to be even more divided and confused.

Certain witnesses, expressing objective and highly idealistic points of view, have supported substitution of a plan for the direct popular election of the President in place of the existing Electoral College system. Such a plan was presented convincingly to the Committee by Neal R. Pierce, author of "The People's President"—the only full length volume on the subject.

Many of the Committee members seemingly were surprised by the statement of the witness, Clarence Mitchell, Director of the Washington Bureau of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. The NAACP, which has been in the forefront of promoting equal rights for all citizens, presented testimony in opposition to any plan for the direct popular vote of the President at the present time. The statement implied that the existing system provides advantages to Negro voting blocs in New York City and other large cities. Mr. Mitchell, in opposing a popular election system, argued that existing discrimination against black Americans deprives many of their right to vote in Southern states.

SURPRISE TESTIMONY

Another surprise came from the American Jewish Congress which presented a detailed statement pointing out various existing inequities in our Federal system, including the representation of small states in the U. S. Senate, far in excess of that which their population would justify, and other aspects which make our Federal system an unequal one. The American Jewish Conference contends that the existing method of electing Presidents favors the urban voter and compensates for the other inequities in our constitutional system. This organization declares:

"The Presidency, which must be responsive to urban and ethnic interests, is seen as a counterweight to Congress. In a country as large as ours and as diverse, this system of countervailing powers has served us well. It is part of a network of balances and accommodations which insures a concern for all groups and a genuinely representative government."

In addition to these examples, other testimony suggests that specific recommendations for Electoral College reform are motivated more by special interests than by objective considerations. The small and less populous states, with their built-in advantage of two bonus electoral votes, equal to their representation in the United States Senate, are inclined to be favorable to retention of the existing system. Also, ethnic and minority groups, with the advantages of their voting blocs, appear to support the winner-take-all philosophy which is inherent in the existing system (where the popular winner in each state receives the state's entire electoral vote.)

In a forthright statement in which special interests were flatly rejected, including the "special advantage for large urban industrial states," Mr. Gus Tyler, Assistant President of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, assured the Committee that:

"... regardless of how valid this argument may be, we nevertheless favor replacement of the present system by direct popular election because we believe it improper that a democracy should so construct its electoral system as to favor ANY one section of the country over another, ANY one ethnic class over another, ANY ethnic group over another, ANY group of states over another, ANY one segment of the population over another. Perhaps this position does run counter to our institutional interests; it is our position, nonetheless."

Whether this selfless attitude can prevail in the U.S. Congress is problematic. Bearing in mind that some reform of the existing Electoral College system is desirable, it should be recalled that this constitutional change requires the concurrence of two-thirds of the Members of the House and Senate in order for the proposition to be passed, and ratification by three-fourths of the states in order for the amendment to become effective.

Electoral College reform which now has been studied in depth—

Registration Binders Are Available

County Clerk Truman G. Gerretsen says his office will provide voter registration binders for the upcoming township, municipal, park board and school board elections. The lists will aid township and village clerks verify the eligibility of those who wish to cast ballots.

The township and park board elections will be on April 1, school boards on April 12, and municipal on April 15. Everyone must be registered.

No Volomatic devices will be used because it would be too difficult and costly to program the computer for small elections where there are so many different districts involved. Gerretsen says he believes it is a civic duty to cast a ballot in every election, even uncontested races, because this is an exercise of citizen participation.

Commenting on the usual poor turnout in off-year elections the Clerk said, "Everyone wants to vote for President of the United States, but for some reason they don't feel the same about other offices. I feel every election is

Campus Disorders — What's The Answer?

According to the dictionary, the word "campus" originally meant: "An open space or field, as for martial exercises." There is still more truth to that than most people find comfortable.

What has happened on some of the campuses throughout the nation is obviously not good. The campus must be a place where the mental processes prevail, not threats or violence. No responsible person can defend some of the excesses which have marked a few campuses.

But before we panic, several things should be kept in mind:

1. The huge majority of students are acting responsibly. This is true even of the most highly publicized campus in the nation, San Francisco State. Too many people are drawing conclusions from headlines that the whole student population of the nation has gone berserk.

2. Difficulties on campus are not new. When I went to college there was occasional violence with students of a rival college after a football game. Five years ago there was a rash of party raids on campuses.

In 1823, Thomas Jefferson wrote about the University of Virginia: "The insubordination of our youth is now the greatest obstacle to their education."

3. While there have been exceptions, generally college administrators in Illinois have handled the situation effectively. At Southern Illinois University, for example, students who broke into the president's office were promptly expelled and prosecuted.

There are reasons for hope even in the most difficult situations. One factor which I believe will moderate the total situation will be the end of the Vietnam War, which hopefully is not too far off.

Two years ago I wrote a paper for the Illinois State Historical Society on riots in Illinois history. In doing it, I came across factual support for an often stated but seldom analyzed concept: When there is violence abroad, there is a tendency toward violence at home.

Almost all of the major domestic disturbances in the United States during the first half of this century occurred around the years of World Wars I and II.

The second sign of hope in all of this is that the U. S. students today are much more concerned about the needs of society than they were when I went to college.

I vividly recall picking up the morning newspaper in my dormitory at Dana College in Nebraska and reading about the Communist take-over of Czechoslovakia. I rushed over to the college canteen to talk to someone about this tragedy — and literally no one was interested.

That would no longer be true on any college campus. We should view the headlines we read with a little balance, not defending irresponsible conduct, but not giving up on the nation's young people.

The answers to the campus problems must be largely given by college administrators, and in no case should there be hasty answers written by lawmakers in an emotionally charged atmosphere.

Material Costs Face Cost Hike

"Lumber and building material dealers and their customers throughout the nation as well as Antioch, Illinois, are currently facing extremely critical shortages and spiraling prices of lumber products from manufacturers," said Ed Vos, president of the Antioch Lumber & Coal Co.

"Such price increases ranging from 20 to 100% during the past year . . . are sky-rocketing housing costs, endangering national housing goals and could seriously hamper efforts to provide adequate housing for low and moderate income families," he said.

"Unfortunately, the retail lumber and building material merchants have no control whatsoever over these current chaotic conditions," continued Ed Vos. "The problem has been created by a basic economic principle—supply and demand—and is primarily based in Federal Government-owned timberlands. Timber production for domestic use is simply insufficient to meet present and projected needs for lumber products.

These factors have contributed to the situation:

1. Exporting of logs by manufacturers who purchase them from federally owned timberlands. Softwood log exports from only two of our northwest states amounted to an increase of over 30% above the same period last year. Many of these logs sold for $100 per thousand board feet or, in many cases, more than would have been paid for the lumber products that might have been manufactured from them.

2. The largest supplier of timber to manufacturers is the federal government, which sells hundreds of times more logs than any private grower. The federal government, therefore, is the log price setter and incidentally benefits more than anyone else in rising timber prices.

Sixty-five per cent of the nation's softwood saw-timber volume is on government owned lands and 54% of this total is in national forests. Nine million acres of western timberland has been withdrawn for "wilderness only" use and 5 million more acres are scheduled for possible withdrawal by 1974. Experts predict a gap of 5 billion between the current level of log production and projected demand in 1972.

3. The extreme weather conditions of late December, January and February have meant that several weeks of production have been lost. While some logging is now resuming, the unusually deep snow will mean that months will be required to get back to some semblance of normal production. There is some hope for action that will alleviate the current crisis. On February 4, a Joint Coordinating Committee of the Housing and Forest Industries laid the groundwork for a cooperative program to ease the lumber and plywood cost and supply crisis. The committee agreed that:

1. The Department of Agriculture and Interior should initiate immediate programs to increase the annual timber harvest from federal lands in line with good management practices. This would bring about an increase of 3 billion board feet in timber cut as an emergency measure.

2. They would support a request for immediate expanded Congressional authorizations and appropriations to improve forest management policies and practices on federal timberlands.

This committee's work has already begun to pay off. The Senate Banking and Currency committee has begun hearings on the problem — and President Nixon has also appointed a committee of his cabinet members to examine the situation. "Meanwhile," said Mr. Ed Vos, "we lumber and building material merchants are wondering when and where we will be able to purchase lumber products to meet the demands of our local communities at less than inflationary prices, as we are unjustly blamed and criticized for the current spiraling lumber costs."

Eye Change In School Bus Taxes

With school transportation costs up because of increased enrollments, inflation and the raising of State Specification standards for buses, the School Problems Commission is proposing a new transportation formula, the Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois reported today.

At the present time the School Code provides for a transportation fund which consists of moneys received from a property tax levy (not to exceed 8c per $100 valuation without referendum—from 8c to 15c with referendum). State reimbursement and funds received from other districts and individuals for transporting pupils.

Data before the School Problems Commission shows that many districts, during the past few years, had to transfer Educational Fund moneys to the Transportation Fund to maintain its solvency. In most districts, these moneys are needed to finance the educational programs.

A breakdown of the 1967 Transportation Fund tax rates shows that 513 districts had a tax rate extended of less than 8c per $100 of property valuation, 748 districts had a rate of 8c extended, and 55 districts had a rate greater than 8c.

Under the proposed formula the State will pay the cost of transporting eligible pupils less the assessed valuation of a school district times a qualifying rate (the qualifying rate in elementary districts is 5c; in high school districts, 3c; and in unit districts, 7c). However, the maximum amount any district may be reimbursed for transportation of eligible pupils is 4/5 of the cost, and the minimum amount to be received by a district is $16 times the number of eligible pupils transported.

Information presented to the School Problems Commission revealed that a great majority of the districts would levy less property taxes than they presently do under the new formula, but a few would have to levy more than they currently levy and these latter districts could levy up to 12c per $100 of valuation. Students transported must live 1 1/2 miles or more from school to receive State reimbursement.

Other features of the proposal are: (1) Reduces the deficit transfer from the Educational Fund to the Transportation Fund; (2) Removes a barrier to district reorganization; (3) Bases reimbursement on an equalization concept; (4) Places maximum regular transportation reimbursement on the same level of support as special and vocational education; (5) Increases State support for transportation to a higher level; and (6) Replaces an outmoded formula.

If approved by the 76th Illinois General Assembly, the new formula will cost the State approximately $7 million more a year and will raise the State's contribution from 30% to 50% of the total cost for transportation of students.

Elbow grease.

Nothing cuts it like an electric self-cleaning oven

This dirty oven cleans itself.

Here's the modern way to clean an oven. Poise a delicate finger over the self-cleaning button. Press down. That's the way it's done on the new electric ranges.

No more rounding-up oven cleaners, or spreading papers on the floor. Forget the rubber gloves. There isn't any greasy gook to wipe away. Never again will you find yourself imprisoned by ugly bars you must scour one by one. You've been liberated.

All you do is press a button. The oven cleans itself, using less than 10¢ worth of electricity to do the whole job. Pretty exciting. It's surprising, though, how fast one gets used to it. In fact, the next generation may take it all for granted.

Not you. You know what you're missing.

The bright new ideas are Electric.

Conservation Club Offers Scholarships

The Northern Illinois Conservation Club voted funds for three Conservation Scholarships for pupils of the Antioch Community High School, to attend the conservation workshops at the University of Illinois.

These workshops will be taught and supervised by regular University staff members and technical assistance will be supplied to the schools by the Soil Conservation Service, the Illinois Geological Survey, the Illinois Water Survey, the Illinois Natural History Survey, the Department of Conservation, the Cooperative Extension Service in Agriculture and Home Economics, and the Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Bill McConahay, Sheila White, and Trudy Soland are the students who have been selected to take this course in conservation. They will address the full NICC membership when they return, relating their experience in these classes.

The NICC, cognizant of the urgent need for conservation leaders, has increased this section of their program from one to three scholarships. Funds for this, and other works, are derived solely from the annual Ice Fishing Derby, prize trap shoots, and Archery Activity.

Cross-Country Motorcycle Races Slated

The North Central Competition Riders of Lake County will host the first of a series of European-type motorcycle races at Wilmet, Wis., Sunday.

The European-type race makes use of natural terrain such as hills, jumps, mud, trees to make the race more interesting to the spectator and extract maximum ability from the rider and machine.

This sport is as popular in European countries as baseball is here. Some of the best European riders can earn up to $60,000 a year. A lot of emphasis is placed on good machinery and preparation by many factories which specialize in Moto-cross motorcycles. Most of these factories will be represented at Sunday's race.

North Central Competition Riders is a group of motorcycle enthusiasts who recently formed to promote the sport of motorcycles in general. Their members take part in all forms of motorcycle competition such as Cross-country, ability contests, and the speed events. Several members have taken high honors in national events.

President Rodger H. Debenham of Antioch said that he has received 75 entries for next Sunday's race from several of the top riders in Indiana, Illinois, and Wisconsin, and expects 80 more. Several former Swedish experts have also signed to ride in 3 of the 4 classes that will be featured Sunday.

4-H Clubbers Tour Museum, Conservation

A trip to Milwaukee Friday, March 14, was thoroughly enjoyed by the Sequoit Suzies and Warriors 4-H clubs. Through the efforts of Mrs. Patrovsky, a tour to the Milwaukee Art Museum and Horticultural Conservatory were planned. The 42 members and 9 leaders left Antioch at 9 a.m. by bus and then arrived at the Museum for a guided tour.

The most fascinating section of the center proved to be the modern art display. The 4-Hers especially liked the light show, which consisted of a dark room that housed various light sculptures. The next stop on the tour was of course lunch which was eaten in the museum's lunch room.

The girls and boys then visited the conservatory which is made up of, three glass domes that serve as different rooms. The first room had a climate and plants much like that of a jungle along the equator. The next room sheltered a desert-like situation, complete with cactus and an oasis. The final and most beautiful room displayed hundreds of spring flowers in a scene that depicted a New Orleans patio garden.

The tired 4-Hers boarded the bus, and then 60 miles, and 20 songs later the bus drove into Antioch.

Propose Crackdown On Tax Evasion

Republican legislative leaders on March 12, introduced a series of 42 bills to crack down on cigarette tax evasion and to close a possible $15 million loophole in the sales tax laws.

Among other practices, the cigarette tax bills introduced in the Senate would:

—Establish a fine of $10 per pack if more than 100 packs of untaxed cigarettes are found in possession of anyone not a licensed licensed distributor.

—Set up an "informant fund" created from sale of confiscated cigarettes. From the fund, the director of revenue could give rewards for information leading to the seizure of untaxed cigarettes or vending devices containing them.

Another bill in the series would forbid issuance of a title for any vehicle on which the Illinois use tax or sales tax has not been paid. The measure is designed to cover a possible loophole in sale of autos previously leased from out-of-state firms.

The tears of sadness we must cry
For the loved one put to rest.

We know that Thy will was best.
All we know is we'll forget you never.

Your loving memories will live

This is because you're living still,

SEASONINGS

Rosemary adds a wonderful flavor to roast turkey. It also does exciting things to stews, and spinach and biscuit dough. It is strong, so go lightly.

Oregano is good in meat dishes, especially spaghetti, but is also very good in tossed salads.

Thyme is an old standby in soups and stews. It does delicious things to fresh, frozen or canned vegetables, especially scalloped onions and eggplant. It gives frittatas and stuffings a new appeal. It's indispensable with fish dishes and clam chowder.

No dressing is complete without sage, and it is good in cheese and tomato dishes also. It gives a new lift to cottage cheese.

Savory and Basil lend great dignity to leftovers, and tang to egg dishes.

Dill is good for more than pickles. Just let a bit stand in cottage cheese. A pinch is delicious in tomato juice, or mashed potatoes.

Why not plant some of these herbs in your garden this spring?

It used to be papa dealt out stern discipline to junior. Then the electric razor took away the razor strop, furnaces took away the woodshed, and tax worries took the hair and hairbrush.

That's why kids are running wild today. Dad's just plain ran out of weapons.

Man's technological developments accelerate at a staggering pace. It is said that 90 per cent of all the scientists who ever lived are alive today, and with the present rate of population growth this statement may remain true for many years.
